About Vance

Vance Langford is a Canadian lawyer and US attorney with over 20 years' experience working with business owners and management to structure, organize, finance and go to market with products and services while managing risk and adapting to change.

In corporate matters, Vance works with owners, management and key advisors on shareholder relations, capitalization and governance. Vance is diligent in negotiating and completing joint ventures, mergers, acquisitions and reorganizations.

Vance provides practical advice and certainty in commercial transactions. He is a trusted advisor to local businesses, multinationals and foreign investors. He is skilled at negotiating and drafting agreements with clarity and recourse.

Vance practices business immigration law in Canada and the United States and is recognized as a leading lawyer in these areas, especially with mobility for executives, professionals and technicians, not to mention artists, athletes and all of their families.

Vance navigates the world with clients engaged in international business through his network of advisors in corporate, tax, securities, intellectual property, trade and competition law.
